

ELECTIONEERS crowded into the student activities office at five o'clock Friday to file last-minute petitions and to see who else was running for Student Council. Candidates for major offices will speak at a forum tonight, and voting will take place on Wednesday and Thursday.

Limelighters, Students Film TV Program

THE LIMELIGHTERS and the University student body will be featured on a new ABC Network TV show, HOOTENANY.

The Limelighters

will be broadcast on two Saturday nights at 8:30 pm, beginning April 6.

The University's function will be to provide a full house for the performance. Tickets, to be distributed through the Student Activities Office, will be free. Distribution dates will be announced in succeeding issues of the HATCHET. Five other Universities including Syracuse, Brown, and Penn State, will follow this school on the program.

Debaters Win Cups In Two Tournaments

UNIVERSITY DEBATERS WON first place at the Johns Hopkins University debate tournament and second place honors at the William and Mary meet this past week end.

According to Professor George F. Henigan, debate coach, this was one of the most successful week-ends in University debating history.

The two-man team, composed of Hugh Hecla and Stanley Remsberg, won all six of their rounds to re-capture the first place trophy which the University won at the Hopkins tournament last year.

The four-man unit, composed of Joe Pincus, Linda Stone, Jerry Sazama, and Tom Harris, took the second place cup at William and Mary; in addition, Sazama and Harris were the second highest-ranked affirmative team and also won a trophy for that honor.

At the William and Mary meet, Joe Pincus tied for first place individual speaker in the tourney and Linda Stone tied for third place; this is the first time the University has had a speaker rank first at that tournament. Stanley Remsberg won the medal as the third place speaker in the Johns Hopkins tournament.

At Johns Hopkins, Hecla and Remsberg defeated Tulane University, Loyola University of Baltimore, the University of North Carolina, Morgan State College, the University of Pennsylvania, and St. Peter's College. Each round was power matched for strength against strength competition, and the University's team was the only undefeated team in the tourney.

At William and Mary, the affirmative team, composed of Jerry Sazama and Tom Harris, defeated the College of William and Mary, Wayne State University, Navy, Kings College, Kent State College, and the University of Florida; their only loss was to Wooster College. Their six win and one loss record made second highest affirmative team in the meet; Ohio State University, also with a six-win and one loss record, was top affirmative because their speaker points were higher.

The negative unit, Joe Pincus and Linda Stone, won four and lost three rounds; they defeated the University of Kentucky, St. Joseph's College, Dartmouth College, and Illinois State Normal University, but lost to Ohio University, Ohio State University, and Pennsylvania State University.

The University's team had the highest combined speaker point total of any team in the William and Mary tournament, but their combined ten win and four loss record was second to Richmond University's eleven win and three loss first place ranking.

Council Offices, Fee Referendum On Election Ballot

NINE OUT OF 28 candidates will be unopposed in the Student Council elections, Feb. 5 and 6.

In addition to the positions still at stake, full-time undergraduate students will be asked to vote on the proposed Fee, and all students will be eligible to vote on the question "Should the editors of the Hatchet be elected?"

In the pre-election activity, the elections committee ruled invalid the petitions of Bud Mulcock for president and Ken Reitz for vice-president on the grounds that both petitions were submitted without the apparent consent of either of the candidates. The Student Life Committee considered an appeal from Reitz on Monday afternoon and allowed him to run.

Temporary Suspension

Lance Berkowitz, running for School of Pharmacy representative, and Victor Clark, in the race for lower Columbian College representative, were temporarily suspended when they failed to appear at a pre-election briefing session, or to send an authorized representative. They were requested, at a special meeting of the elections committee on Monday, to "show cause" why their candidacies should not be declared invalid.

Candidates for the three major all-campus offices which remain to be filled, president, member-at-large, and publicity director, will speak at a special forum, Tuesday, Feb. 4, at 8 pm in Government 1. Presidential candidates Paul Schwab and Stewart Bentley will each have ten minutes in which to discuss, debate, or answer questions on the presidential race. Then candidates for Allen Harris, Frank Breen, and Ronald Scheraga will be given seven minutes apiece. Finally, candidates for publicity director, Elliott Swift and Allan Goldberg, will speak.

Voting Machines

An innovation in this year's election is the use of voting machines, which, according to Advocate Robert A. Aleshire, will encourage more people to vote, eliminate invalid ballots and any question about recounts, and make voting simpler and faster. "Every student who votes will vote correctly," he said.

The ten students declared elected in the "no contest" situation include: Eric Rubin, comptroller; Steve Baer, activities director; William McAdams, freshman director; Jerry Chizever, treasurer; Dirk Gnodde, advocate; Bernard Levis, program director; Stephen Schaeffer, Student Union Board chairman; Eillian Caparell, secretary; and Michael Steinman, upper Columbian representative.

The team defeated Tulane University and tied the University of Texas, losing the right to return in a coin-toss.

Book Exchange Well Stocked

- A "STOCKPILE" OF used Problems in Prose, History 71, and Speech 11 books await budget-minded students in the student Book Exchange, according to Connie Phillips, chairman.
- Other books which are in abundant supply include Spanish 3, Anthropology 1, and Political Science 9-10.

Lincoln Steffens are in great demand and are "certain to sell well if brought in."

In business for the sixth consecutive semester, the Exchange had sold over $1200 worth of books from Wednesday, Jan. 30 until Saturday, Feb. 2. Anticipating good business this week, she predicts the total amount will go over $2000. It will be open in the Student Union annex from 10 am until 7 pm through Friday.

Anyone who bought an English 4 book, Ideas for Writing, may bring in the book and receipt for a full refund, since a new edition is being used this semester, Miss Phillips said. This rule applies to any books sold in the Exchange which are not being used.

The exchange, which acts as a non-profit middleman between those wishing to sell used textbooks and students looking for bargains in buying them, pays up to 75 percent of value for books in "perfect condition" and takes a 25 cent service charge on each sale. This pays for publicity and printing of receipts. Any profit goes into the Student Council Surplus Fund.

Assignment: put more pep per pound into Ford-built engines

Result: New family of lightweight powerplants . . . Including a new V-8 that weighs 110 pounds less than the comparable V-8 it replaces

In our search to provide good performance with lighter powerplants, Ford Motor Company engineers and foundrymen have pioneered new techniques that now let us cast our engine blocks with such precision that much lighter engines are made possible.

New materials used to make cores and molds and new casting methods enable us to make engine parts with walls as thick as necessary—but no thicker. This eliminates weight of extra material which must be used to provide adequate strength with less precise casting methods.

Reducing engine weight through precision casting means more performance per pound—and since lighter engines mean overall car weight can be reduced, better fuel economy results.

Another assignment completed—another Ford First—and one more example of how Ford Motor Company continues to provide engineering leadership for the American Road.

"HOW DOES THE editor account for the weeks when Max Shulman's Marlboro column was the best thing in the paper? How does he withstand the anguish as he sees a reader scan through the newspaper in a minute flat? How does he ignore a mother's pleas that her son write nice editorials—that if he can't say anything nice he shouldn't say anything at all?"—The Bucknellian.

Furman University
SOMETHING NICE ABOUT religion. Furman University is making plans for Religious Focus Week. "The annual emphasis on religion will be somewhat different this year. There will be 11 speakers instead of just a few." Some of the topics to be discussed include "How to Win Friends and Marry One," and "Finding a Place in Life."

VPI
ON THE OTHER HAND, VPI's Religious Emphasis Week has met with dismal failure. One of their columnists suggests it be replaced with "Promiscuity Emphasis Week." "We could start Promiscuity Emphasis Week with a couple of convocations in which we could have Ayn Rand talk on free love, and Playboy's editor explain the Playboy philosophy. . . . We could hand out to all students mimeographed copies of Kinsey's most interesting statistics." "One thing you can be fairly sure of—there wouldn't be any complaints about student apathy during Promiscuity Emphasis Week," he said.

Among the topics under discussion will be, "The Non-Resistant Christian in History" and the "Non-Resistant Christian in the Present Crisis."

Maryland University
SPEAKING OF CRISES. At University of Maryland, students, not content with hanging their esteemed coaches in effigy, have resorted to additional vigilante tactics. Last week they hung a moose head in front of one of the dining halls. He bore the legend, "A Moose Couldn't Eat This Food."

MIT
SIXTY-ONE PERCENT of the students at MIT received grades of A and B in the second term last year, and eight percent of the freshman class was on probation. Only three percent of the undergraduate grades were failing.

Bucknell
AND OF OTHER FAILURES. The fraternity system at Bucknell will investigate its own hazing practices which resulted in the hospitalization of seven pledges of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity. Several "mad scientists" among the active were involved in "unauthorized entry into a research laboratory" where they obtained three experimental chemicals which they later used to attempt to force the pledges to leave a barricaded room in the house. When the pledges refused to report for pre-initiation training, the chemical was poured under the door.

University of Richmond
AND SMALL SUCCESS. The Richmond-Collegian revisits the Ole Miss campus and views the plight of one James Meredith. Their editorial decision is that "for good or ill, Mr. Meredith was enrolled at Ole Miss. He has proved his point and now it is time to withdraw. The University itself has done about all it could to accommodate him—now it needs time to relax and cool off. It is embarrassing and sad to have to watch a University, a seat of learning, writhe in the grip of political pressures while a populace is incited as never before by a veritable orgy of the news media."

University of Maryland
SPEAKING OF ORGIES. A house is not a home. The Tekes at the University of Maryland were raided by the county police while they were holding a University-registered party at a nearby American Legion Post. The police appeared in answer to a complaint about parking violations. When the responding patrolman entered the hall he was, according to his own testimony, "called a name."

He then radioed for assistance. The Tekes president says he introduced himself to the policeman and told him it was a private party. The officer said "Humph," left, and began radioing.

Antioch College
CLASSROOM TECHNIQUES "ARE darned inefficient," according to an Antioch professor. New methods are in the offing to encourage students to formulate and develop their own problems. These include tutorials, and credit by examination without classwork. However, students may be more important than teachers in the learning process. "There is data to indicate that students may have more influence on their classmates than professors do. But our faculty won't be out of a job. For more sophisticated things the teacher must be there."

Western Ontario
THE RESCUE OPERATIONS of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been meeting with some criticism on Canadian campuses in the past weeks. The Red Coats have been accused of overzealously investigating the students, ala HUAC and similar organizations. A University of Western Ontario professor commented that he would like to see a Western student with extreme leftist views. "But then," he added, "if I met a Western student with extreme views of any type I'd be delighted."

Editorials

Activities Fee Vote . . .

• STUDENTS WILL VOTE Wednesday and Thursday on whether the activities fee proposal should be accepted by the University administration. Again the HATCHET urges the voters to unanimously support this proposal and to vote yes on the referendum.

For years the undergraduate students have been complaining about the poor quality of student activities and have urged that "name bands" be hired for dances and that "big time entertainers" be employed for concerts. Now they have a chance to help realize the goal of better and more efficient programs than have previously been provided by voting the activities a guaranteed, and larger budget.

The lack of student participation is the constant cry of candidates for Student Council offices and the constant complaint of activities chairmen. At the heart of all arguments lies the insistence that with more money, the campus activities could attract a wider base of support and could greatly enhance student participation. Now the students have a chance to make these proposals come true; a vote of yes will greatly increase the budgets for the various groups.

Additionally, the University is changing its character from a "commuter campus" to a residential university. Almost all other residential schools of any size or merit have activities fees to support a range of student activities commensurate with the university's standing. By voting favorably upon the fee, students will take a big step toward the University's development.

Almost all candidates in the election favor the fee, and significant majorities in the past two years' Councils have supported the proposal. Work on the fee issue started last year and has continued ever since; finally, the fee is before the University administration, and a "yes" vote in the referendum will add even more weight behind the proposal and will help to influence the administration to agree to the fee.

The fee will mean only a ten dollar increase in payment at tuition time, a little enough amount for the quantity of good it will bring. Not only will the activities' budgets increase, but also tuition funds now used to support student affairs will be released to be used in improving facilities and to increase teachers' salaries.

The HATCHET cannot strongly enough urge its readers to vote "yes" on the activities fee referendum.

Elected Editors . . .

• AMONG OTHER ISSUES facing voters in the annual brruhaha Wednesday and Thursday is a proposal that the editors of the HATCHET be elected.

Note that this proposal has not gone to the Student Council and is not therefore a Council-sponsored referendum issue; it is merely a "straw vote" opinion poll. Furthermore, it does not mention by whom the editors should be elected, on what qualifications individuals should compete, or at what time of year the voting should be held. In fact, the proposal says nothing.

Contrast this with the method by which editors are presently chosen. According to the HATCHET's Constitution, the Committee on Publications will ELECT the Board of Editors from among nominations received from: 1) each member of the retiring Board of Editors, separately, 2) the Student Council, 3) the Department of Journalism, or 4) any individual "in his own behalf, who believes himself qualified and who has not otherwise been nominated." Furthermore, before the committee will consider a person, the nominee must be an undergraduate in an upper-division with at least a 2.00 QPI who has served "not less than one full year on the HATCHET staff, preferably on the Sub-Editorial Board."

On its face value, this seems to be a more efficient method for selecting editors who have some knowledge of the functions of journalism and the techniques needed to run a paper.

For these reasons alone, the proposal is superfluous.

In addition, this proposal was placed on the ballot by President Don Ardell and by the Elections Committee, chaired by Advocate Rebert Aleshire. Interestingly enough, neither one was able to tell the HATCHET who backed the proposal, by whom the necessary petition was being circulated, or on what basis the demand was made. The only information gleaned was that some "law school students and a law school professor" have "made a study" and have formulated the proposal.

The HATCHET cannot but contrast this hasty action with the very deliberate hair splitting which accompanied the decision to submit the Activities Fee to a referendum and to recognize the SPU and SPA—as well as conscientious attention to minute detail which has distinguished most other Council action.

Students should show their disdain for this ill-considered poorly-worded straw vote opinion poll.

Speaking Out . . .

Presidential Candidates Discuss Issues

• "WHY DO YOU think you are best qualified to be the President of the Student Council?"

The following is a verbatim transcript of the face-to-face, tape recorded session in which candidates Woody Bentley and Paul Schwab attempted to answer this question. University students will get a chance to see both candidates hammer out their differences and answer questions at the Student Council election forum in Government 1 at 8 pm this Tuesday night, Feb. 5. Woodruff S. Bentley stated his views first:

BENTLEY: "This is a question in which you'd have to look into the background of the position of the Presidency of the Student Council. First of all, the President not only has to chair the meetings of the Student Council, he also has to represent the student body in front of the administration and the faculty of the University. He also has to function to perform certain functions along with the Public Relations Department of the University. In other words, the President of the Student Council presents the image of the University to the outside world."

"The President of the Student Council also has unlimited entree with the President of the University and with other high University officials, therefore the President of the Student Council has to combine maturity, knowledge, ability, and the willingness, and an ability to articulate student opinion and the needs of the student body before all these varying groups of people."

Security for Finances

"I feel I'm qualified for a number of reasons. First of all, I've demonstrated my ability as Treasurer of the Student Council. I took a job which in the past was one job, the comptroller, it's been divided into two. I took strong measures to insure that there was adequate security for the finances, for the monies involved. We handle about $60,000. For the first time in the knowledge of this school, the finances have been set on a pattern whereby very little money has been misappropriated; that which was stolen was actually physically taken off the persons of people involved, and the records that are kept are very easy to audit and look into."

"Secondly, as a member of the Council, I have taken numerous actions for the good of the student body. I've attempted first of all to bring about reduced student tickets to Lisner Auditorium by my own efforts by negotiations through the business office. Furthermore I worked for student parking facilities. I spent a great deal of time working on the Activities Fee giving the technical knowledge needed to put this program through and to build up the final presentation to the Council and to the Trustees."

"I've also worked hard to strengthen the Student Council, to put it in its proper position in relation to the student body, to show the student body that we have a position which we must respect and the position of the Student Council is one which will aid all the students to bring about the things that they need because we have the function of providing non-academic activities. This year we've had some very successful ones brought about by active Student Council participation. Fall Concert, Homecoming all made profits for the first time in quite a few years."

"So I think what we need is continued strong leadership on the Council; someone who is able to meet all the requirements of being a President—has the ability to talk and the friendship and be able to meet on a common plane with all these varying people within the Council itself, he must be able to talk to everyone concerned."

Stewart Bentley

"I hope if, I am elected, to bring about better communication on this campus. There's been a deadly lack of communication with the IFC, with the dormitory councils, such bodies as the Engineering Council, many other bodies which exist to help the students, and there's been a complete lack of communication here in the past and these things I feel are some of the reasons why we have very poor student spirit, why there has been little done in the past. We need strong leadership, we haven't had it and I think Paul incapable of giving it, and later on I'll tell you why."

SCHWAB:

"I'd like to begin by the best means I think possible of presenting why I think that I would be best qualified for running for this position. And that is using myself to determine what the role of the Council should be, primarily how it has failed, particularly this past semester, and how I myself can bring about in remedying this situation and fulfilling the role that I think the Student Council should do."

"Primarily why I want to run is that I feel in my position as President of the Student Council, I will be able to bring to the at-

The program includes the first performance of "Three Studies in Density," a composition by Joseph Ott, member of the University music faculty. Mr. Ott, who has been associated with University music for over four years, has composed and directed music for the Dance Production Groups and University musicals. In the first international symphonic competition at Trieste, Italy, last year Mr. Ott's composition, "Premiere for Orchestra" placed first among all the entries.

The complete program for Thursday's concert includes:

VARIATIONS ON A THEME BY FRESCOBALDI, Tansman. SYMPHONY NO. 101, "THE CLOCK," Haydn.

THREE STUDIES IN DENSITY, Ott.

PRELUDE AND LOVE-DEATH FROM "TRISTAN AND ISOLDE," Wagner.

The concert is open to the public free of charge.

tion of the Council many issues that were neglected and minimized through this past year. I feel, and this is a basic part of my platform and campaign, that the role of the Council is a role by which the Council functions as a liaison between the students and the administration. It does not echo the administration. Its primary responsibility is to the students.

Responsible to Students
"In being primarily responsible to the students it represents this voice and presents this voice to the administration. This is something that I feel has been lacking this past semester and I feel it has been lacking because looking back over many of the decisions that have been reached it appears to me that most of them that were supported by the ruling coalition of the Council were primarily administration votes, not votes that reflected the demands and desires of the students. This is an important function to perform. I don't think it has been and I've said why.

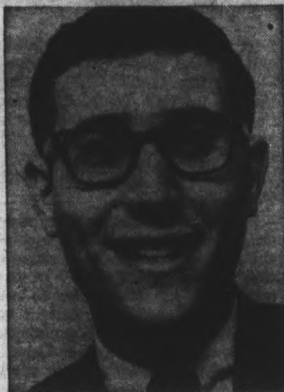

"I feel that I myself am better qualified than my opponent for several reasons: I think, number one, that I have been able to work better with many members of the Council this past year and this is an important thing. Two, from my votes, from decisions that I have made in this past Student Council, I personally feel that I made a sincere effort to represent the students.

Experience in Leadership
"As far as experience, I've had experience in working with people on the Council and other activities and I've had the experience in leadership, being head of several activities, for example, Colonial Cruise, and being president of Phi Eta Sigma. Basically what I would like to see as President, why I feel I am better qualified, the key to my platform is that, and I'd like to add this here, the Council should lead and not be led. Yet, the Council should not lead by pure self-assertion. They should lead as the representative of the students, as the liaison between the students and the administration.

"Reorganizing the Council and reorganization means virtually nothing to this student. What we need, and it's about time for this Council to get it in order to gain respect and really become a fine working body, is to re-orientate the Council, not reorganize it. It's time that the Council knows what role it is supposed to play. Its time for the students to see a Council that is actively and earnestly reflecting its own interests.

"This is important. I feel and plan to bring out in my campaign and I can say now, that this has been lacking, that the Council has this function to perform. My ideas that I am going to present in the campaign are not ideas that are going to be on the lines of organization of Council, of changing election rules, of things of this sort which materially aren't felt by the students. They are going to be direct things.

Definite Stand
"I also can point out that in the past I have aided the students directly with several measures that I have incorporated. I think the definite stand I took on the referendum is a very good issue to begin with. I think another thing that I can mention is concerning discounts, is the fact that I originally proposed the Metropolitan Inter-Collegiate Council whereby six universities in the area are planning together on such projects where discounts will be able to go to all university students, and through this it won't be just limited to GW students, so with 7000 students participating perhaps we can get much more of a wide-spread demand.

"As far as the parking problem, I have been seen ably fit enough to be chosen by the Council to be the Activities Council representative on the Student Planning Commission, and on the SPC I have functioned, attending meetings and contributing. As far as discounts go, student parking problem, I have kept in contact with this directly with those members of the SPC who have been working on them. My project I

Flight To Europe . . .

THE UNIVERSITY IS organizing a BOAC jet flight from Dulles International Airport to Paris for students, their parents, and University faculty and staff. One hundred seats are available at $250 round trip fare. This price includes the price of the air transportation only; individuals must plan their own European tours. The flight leaves on August 16 and returns on September 12. All those interested should contact the Dean of Men, Dr. Paul V. Bissett, at Extension 421 for further details. Since only a limited number of seats are available, reservations should be made early.

have fulfilled in that capacity as far as this organization with the six universities. We have met, it looks like there is a lot of potential there. We plan to develop it, and our next meeting, which I have called, will be at the University in two weeks.

"In conclusion, I feel that the Council should not be as some students have suggested it to be, an authoritarian body, an entity that need not apologize to any students for its actions. This is not what the role of the Council should be. And if I am elected president of the Student Council, I will not become a tool to the students; I will not become a servant to the students needs. Yet, I will make sure that if I personally cannot fully realize the needs of the students, that I as representative of the students in the capacity of President of the Council will make these desires and demands heard and answered by the administration."

BENTLEY:

"Well, I would like to discuss my platform a little bit. I think Paul is good for us and has very good ideas, but I don't think he is giving many specifics. I would like to give specific ideas that I have that I've seen that are needed. First of all I think that the Council must represent the student. There is no question in my mind of this. I don't feel that any Council has to apologize for any of its actions. And the way that you show your displeasure with Councils is to vote them out of office, vote out those who support their policies.

"I feel that the letter to the editor that I sent to the HATCHET which was published on Dec. 11 very strongly shows my feelings as to this past Student Council. There is some valid criticism of our Council, but we have gotten more done than any other Council in the past. We did a great deal; you look at this letter. My platform includes the fact that if we get this Activities Fee passed, which I'm strongly in favor of, I hope that we shall next year have a very big and successful program provided for the students.

Study of Student Government

"I am for working with the administration for many more parking facilities for the students. I shall continue to work for reduced student ticket prices at Lisner. I believe that there should be a study of student government at the University to see if it can be improved; if any changes can be made. I think this should be done with the help of some of the faculty members in the political science department.

"I further feel that when the Council went on record as saying that they did not believe that the two year required PE, the grades from that for non-PE major should be included in the overall QPI, I think this should be further pushed. I don't believe the students really want their grades, PE grades, as part of their QPI. I think we need a more dynamic Student Council Colonial program that could be fixed which would go along with the Activities Fee. I look for further continued strict control over Student Council finance.

"I'd like to see a traffic light at 21st and G streets. I'd like to see the closing off of some of these through streets through the University so that students won't risk getting killed. I too, look for more cooperation with the area universities, but I think we've got to get a big job done on this campus before that will do us a great deal of good. I think that we need University transportation to athletic events at DC Stadium and Ft. Myer.

"I think we need better overall programming in publicity of all events here at the University. I think that there should be a University-sponsored car pool system similar to the one at the Pentagon which may alleviate, help alleviate, the parking situation. Added, there should be a large program board placed in front of the Student Union listing all the activities, week by week.

PanHel Assembly . . .

There will be a Panhellenic Assembly for all girls interested in participating in spring rush, at 5:00 pm on Wednesday in the Student Council Conference Room of the Student Union Annex. Attendance at this meeting is compulsory for membership consideration by the individual sororities.

Better Communication

"And finally, I think we need more communication between all the functioning bodies here-the IFC, especially the IFC, we need a strengthened IFC, a stronger fraternity system, and I think this can be done with more cooperation between the President of the Student Council and the President of the IFC. I also think we need weekend hours at the library and all Student Union facilities.

"I think all these things that I have mentioned in my platform are things which will materially aid the students here at this University. I think they are things that are needed to help them be able to study more, to be able to enjoy their leisure hours more. And I know I would like to present some things as far as Paul is concerned in some of the things he's stated already.

"He said that his record shows a sincere effort to represent the ed the referendum twice, but it so happened that the first referendum was illegal. It was presented under a portion of the constitution which states that a petition may be presented when a matter is under consideration by the Council. This was no longer true. The Activities Fee had been passed and presented to the administration when the petition from the Engineering School was presented. We voted against it because it was definitely illegal and out of order. At that time I suggested to the Engineering School representative, who is not Paul Schwab's campaign manager, that he simply make a motion to put the referendum on the ballot. He neglected to do so, or he did not desire to do so.

Politically Motivated

"At the next Council meeting, I did so and Paul Schwab stood up and said it was a politically motivated action. It was none whatsoever. It was an action by me because I believed that this should be presented to the students, and that they should have an opportunity to vote on it, but he surely vocally opposed my action at that time. He said that he works better with other members. All I saw of Paul on the Council this year was continued minority opposition with no strong concrete proposals, except for his one very good idea of this inter-regional council which I too support, which was worked on last year, and which fell through.

"He said that the Student Council should lead and not be led. This is what I've been trying to do this semester. I've continually attempted to present the student students. I think two things he pushed this year definitely show an insincere effort to represent the students. First of all, he helped sponsor with Judy Allen an amendment to the constitution to restrict graduate students, to keep them from running for student Council office. In the past, we have had numerous instances of officers on the Council being graduate students. And I think that this would directly cut into the representation. I think this is a strike at the democratic system and I think Paul showed very poor judgment in doing this.

"Secondly, Paul backed unlimited campaign expenditures for Student Council elections. I think this would have thrown open elections to the most flagrant kind of expenditures. I think the present $25 limitation is adequate, and the rest of the Council agreed with me in opposition to Paul.

"He, Paul, said that he support-viewpoint and to work for this. I don't think this Council was led. I don't think my Council can be led, but I think there needs to be a strong president.

"I think that the offices I've held here, as commander of the ROTC, shows that others believe in my ability enough to appoint me to the highest job in ROTC. I also have a very good academic record. I am a scholarship holder and a member of Alpha Theta Nu.

Complete Neglect

"And further, as far as Paul is concerned, it interests me greatly that he feels he's done a good job this year. Because when I look at the duties of the publicity director I can see that Paul completely neglected his jobs. He is in charge of the bulletin boards, to see that they are kept up to date. All year I have seen material that is outdated by months on the bulletin board, which he's failed to remove.

New Teacher . . .

WILLIAM J. COUGHLIN, the editorial director of American Aviation Publications and the editor of Missiles and Rockets, will teach a course in editorial writing, journalism 151, this semester.

He's supposed to help publicize the Colonial program and yet George Steiner has been asking for his help and has not received it. I heard complaints from the Messiah Chorus that he did little to help them.

"As far as working to implement all other kinds of publicity material, Linda Sennet did almost all of it as far as I know. She actually complained about the amount of work she had to do, and it seemed to me from when I

26 Candidates

Member at Large

Frank Breen

"Student government is a once a year thing with most students," says Frank Breen, Foreign Affairs major in the School of Government (QPI 2.5). If successful in his bid for the position of Member-at-Large, he would set up office hours to "help students participate in government and try to let them know that their thoughts are welcome." He would attempt to develop some kind of common bond in a diversified student body through additional social functions to be sponsored by the Student Council.

He has had "wide chairmanship experience in the fraternity system." He is Vice President and Treasurer of Phi Kappa Alpha, and was Outstanding Pledge and winner of the Pledge Scholarship Award.

Ron Scheraga

Ronald Scheraga, candidate for Member-at-Large, calls for a student discount for productions given in Lisner Auditorium, a separate subsidiary council for each major school, and a board of independents. He would like to see the Council "get in closer contact with students—acting more as a governing body rather than a liaison between the administration and the students—I don't think the Council has been performing this particular duty very well."

"So far as this dreaded Activities Fee is concerned," he said, "I will have to come out against that. It would mean about 4000 people who would in all likelihood try to attend student functions, and for that reason I would oppose it."

Scheraga, a sophomore majoring in Foreign Affairs (QPI 2.7) holds several offices which enables him to "take an active part in the government within the fraternity system." He is Corresponding Secretary, acting Recording Secretary, Reporter, and Assistant Treasurer for Phi Sigma Delta. Beyond that, he is in the Glee Club, the Dance Production Groups, and the University Players.

John Diesem

A student with "extremely wide and varied experience in student affairs," John Diesem is running for the position of Member at Large. His qualifications include varsity debate, Troubadors, the Cultural Foundation ("in its initial stages"), drama productions and publicity, May Day ceremonies, University Delegate, fraternity membership, membership in the business professional—Alpha Kappa Psi, Cheerleaders, People-to-People, and various other activities. At the present time he is a member of the Columbian College in Economics with a 3.4 QPI.

His specific recommendations for the next year include creating a liaison with the new vice-president for university planning; an organized, sincere, and determined effort to give the commuter student an effective voice in student activities and council affairs; referral of the issue of Union food and service to the student body if the Union board fails to correct these; organizing by some process a student committee to suggest recommendations on the various curricula and courses; and establishing some rapport between the University Senate and the student body.

His recommendations for the Council as a whole are to "grow up" and realize its responsibilities to both the University in general and the students in particular; to weigh carefully and completely any action taken which may effect the reputation of anybody and anything; and to provide the students more opportunity for active participation in Council affairs.

Al Harris was unavailable for comment.

Lower Columbian

Four candidates have declared for the office of Lower Columbian Representative, making it one of the more hotly contested Council posts.

Vic Clark

Victor Clark, a sophomore liberal arts major, proposes "a four point program with a purpose." The program calls for: "1—Organized student action to obtain student discounts; 2—The establishment of a non-profit student book store; 3—A student Bill of Rights; and 4—A better deal for students in their government." The "better deal" would be implemented by electing student members of the Student Life Committee, finding a way to represent foreign students on the Council, and giving Lower Columbian College more equalitarian representation—commensurate with the large number of students in that school. The Bill of Rights, one of Clark's most important planks, would ideally be incorporated into the Articles of student government and would put the University on record for "the protection of academic freedom, freedom of student political action within reasonable limits, prohibition of discrimination in student life," and would guarantee that "student publications shall be free from prior censorship so long as they do not purport to speak for the university."

Clark plans to conduct an issue-oriented campaign with emphasis on the importance of academic freedom to the vitality of a university. "The University should encourage one thing in a student: to think for himself, to think logically, to think reasonably. It should inculcate into the student his intellectual heritage with the provision that if he is going to destroy it he must have better reasons than those which established it," he said.

Clark is a member of the University and D.C. chapters of the Young Democrats, the Lutheran Student Association, the Enosian Debate Society, and was formerly a speech-writer for Senator Hartke (D-Ind.). He has a QPI of 2.85.

Steve Royer

Steve Royer, a freshman, is emphasizing student participation in student government. "This year there are nine uncontested candidates for the Student Council! Because of this lack of interest, the students will suffer—and ultimately, the school will suffer. If elected, I will do my best to correct this sorrowful situation. We are a select electorate with an educated strata to check our Student Council leaders! But we do not have Student Council leaders who inject interests and ultimate goals. I believe if this end is accomplished, interest in student politics—the dynamics of student government, would be greatly enhanced," he said in a campaign statement to the HATCHET.

There are several things he would like to see happen with regard to the Student Council. First, the establishment of long-range goals: "By 1970, the streets in this area will be filled in and will be barred to automobile traffic. We will have a campus and we will have completely different problems. The Council should begin to prepare for this now." Second, better publicity of Council problems since "students don't understand the scope of issues." Third, an efficiently organized means of determining the opinions and needs of the various interest groups in Lower Columbian (such as residence halls and fraternities). He proposes a staff to publish hand-bills and keep the constituency informed.

Royer is a Foreign Affairs major with a QPI of 3.0. He is part of the office staff of Senator Javits (D-N.Y.) and is President of Junior I.F.C.

John Gordon

Another freshman on the slate, John Gordon, has been reading all the Council minutes since last May and back issues of the HATCHET to get a comprehensive working knowledge of student affairs.

Last semester, he busied himself with several grass-roots activities—delivering HATCHETS, selling tickets to Fall Concert, Spring Concert, and Homecoming, working on the Greek section of the Cherry Tree, serving as pledge president, and going to Council meetings.

He calls for better Freshman Orientations since under the present system "the only real orientation is rushing." By way of improvement he would like to see the Council send out letters to each incoming student explaining the Council and its Lower Columbian segment, have a party sponsored by the sophomore class, and organize a guided tour around Washington.

"I have seen very little representation of the respective schools," he said. To correct this he would revive, at least for Lower Columbian, a provision that already exists in the Articles of Student Government—i.e. sub-councils for every school. The baby council would include representatives for the dorms, commuters, and foreign students; and would meet about once every two weeks to discuss things to be brought before the Council proper.

Bart Freedman

Bart Freedman could not be reached.

Publicity Director

Both candidates for Publicity Director came up with several suggestions for improving the Student Council's methods of getting information to the student body. Allan Goldberg, a sophomore in Lower Columbian who calls his major "chemistry or physics" (QPI 3.38) had four specific proposals: two glassed-in bulletin boards in the front of the Student Union, one for a list of weekly events and one for activities of special magnitude; the election of publicity directors in the residence halls and coordination of their efforts; increased use of the radio station, WRGW for publicity purposes; and tree stands on G Street (which he said were in need of repair). "I have noticed when I put up publicity for the Booster Board that many of the posters are not current—I would like to see that they are removed on time," he said.

Elliott Swift, a senior in Upper Columbian majoring in Psychology, (QPI 2.75) while admitting that he hadn't "sat down and outlined any platform," had four different suggestions: publicizing events at games; more attention-getting posters utilizing bright colors and cartoons; better coverage of events in the HATCHET via a special liaison from the Publicity Committee; and broadcasting events over the public address system on the first floor of the Student Union. Swift felt confident of his ability to produce "interesting, original ideas to get people to come to these activities."

He offered as further evidence his services to the I.F.C. publicizing the '61 Sing and serving on the Racial Equality Committee and as Scholarship Chairman, to Phi SK as Scholarship Chairman; and membership in Order of Scarlet, Old Men, and Gate & Key.

Allan Goldberg rests on his record as Publicity Chairman for Booster Board, Scholarship, Campus Activities, and Social Chairman for Phi Sigma Delta, Social Chairman for I.F.C., and participation in intramural forensics, WRGW, and the honorary fraternities Alpha Theta Nu and Phi Eta Sigma. "I am interested in drawing independents into school activities, for example, I think more committee chairmanships should go to independents. Generally speaking, the over-all attitude on campus is one of non-participation in school affairs," he said.

Elliott Swift spoke out on the record of the present Council. "I haven't attended a Council meeting for about two years, but from what I gather, the Council seems prone to be submissive when it comes to Dr. Bissell and Dr. Kirkbride. I think the Council should exercise more authority. The controversy over Article 11 was very bad showmanship."

Advocate

Dirk Gnodde, a history education major, is the uncontested candidate for Advocate. He stated that the Council should have its own interpretation of issues in the HATCHET with a column or article written by a Council representative. The Planning Commission should be more active, he added, and investigate more of the issues in the University.

The Council, moreover, should have no control over the HATCHET editors. If it did, Gnodde feels that favoritism might prevail, and the positions would become political appointments, if they were paid. When asked about the recent Council censure of the editors, he flatly stated that this action was "rather

and Their Issues

dumb, to say the least. The Council felt some pressure to publicly get back at the HATCHET for the slights it had received.

On recognition of student activities and groups, Gnodde feels that if Rule 11 is in effect, it should be followed to the letter, as in any law or statute. There should be no exceptions made, as in the case of the Young Republicans and Democrats. The Council must be more discreet in its judgement, he added.

Engineering

Vytas Tarulis

Vytas Tarulis, a candidate for Engineering School Representative, hopes to "combine the general feelings of the campus with the specific requirements of the Engineering School," should he be elected. A sophomore majoring in electrical engineering (QPI 2.8), he cited membership in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and a year's service on the Engineer's Council plus work on the HATCHET and membership in Sigma Chi as a base from which to accomplish this.

Although he felt that the Engineering School will never be an integral part of the school, he said that "half of the non-participation is through ignorance—nothing is ever publicized over in the Engineering School."

Richard Singer

Richard Singer said the Council should recognize "changing times and the need for betterment." The Engineering Representative should recognize that his "primary function is to serve the Council, and then to act as a liaison for the Engineering School; though both jobs are equally important." Singer has been on the Engineer's Council for four years, is a member of Theta Tau, a professional engineering fraternity, Sigma Tau, a scholastic fraternity, The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Order of Scarlet, and the Arnold Air Society under ROTC. He served as co-chairman of the Engineer's Ball last year and was facilities sub-chairman for Colonial Cruise. He is a Mechanical Engineering major in his senior year (QPI 2.75).

Pharmacy School

Joel Cherry

Two juniors are competing to be representative of the School of Pharmacy. Joel Cherry, who was proxy for the representative last year, stresses his views on the recruitment of new students with closer cooperation between the D.C. Pharmaceutical Association, the surrounding county high schools, and the University.

He suggests having assemblies and lectures with the high school students by the pharmacy school and its alumni to recruit the new students. If he wins this contest, he wants to coordinate activities within the pharmacy school with joint functions and meetings. He would integrate the school with the rest of the University through joint functions and the Activity Fee. Cherry has worked for Campus Combo, Old Men, the Rifle Team, and Homecoming. In his fraternity, AEPi, he is the historian.

Lance Berkowitz

Lance Berkowitz, who has been active in many pharmacy activities and has also served on dorm councils in both Adams and Calhoun Halls, does not feel that the representation of the school is complete. He said he would try to centralize it with the University through a more thorough publicity of University affairs. He expects to graduate in June of 1965, and has a 2.4 average.

Government

Dennis Jones

"I will try to get more activity for the Council from the School of Government—particularly since students in that school are studying this sort of thing and should get some practical experience. I will try to meet as many students as possible." This is the if-elected strategem of Dennis Jones, a Political Science major in the School of Government (QPI 2.25).

His ability to talk and meet people" has been derived from representing SAE at national and province conventions, working as Alumni and Rush Chairmen; serving as Trophy Chairman and comptroller for Homecoming, Assistant Business Manager of the Cherry Tree, and being in Old Men and Gate and Key.

Joel Rosenberg

Joel Rosenberg bases his qualifications for the office of the School of Government to the Student Council on previous service as the vice president of the pre-legal society, membership on the Booster Board, and offices in his fraternity. He states that the School of Government representative has previously had "a lazy man's job." He proposes a modest start be made with possibly "an undergraduate periodical discussing current affairs, thus realizing some of the latent potential in the School." This proposed periodical Rosenberg contends could serve as a catalyst; raising student interest.

Vice President

Linda Sennett

Student Activities Assistant, present Council secretary, president of Phi Sigma Sigma, and honorary member of the Order of the Scarlet, Linda Sennett is running against Ken Reitz for vice-president. She plans to see that the Council work is carried out more efficiently and quickly through a more interested president and vice-president. She said that if the two top officers were genuinely interested in their work, they could cooperate better, and do a better job. As Vice-President, she would provide better supervision of the standing committees. Many people, she added, run for vice-president of an organization because it is known as a passive position. Miss Sennett, on the contrary, wants to play an active role in the student life on campus through this position.

On the HATCHET editors' censure by the Council, Miss Sennett feels that the editors should have been given a chance to defend themselves before the final meeting and censure. The editors should not be elected or paid. She is majoring in elementary education, with a Q.P.I. of 3.0

Ken Reitz

Ken Reitz became eligible to run for vice-president on Monday. Because of his late candidacy, his background and platform could not be included in this issue.

Secretary

Lillian Caparell

A candidate for Secretary, Lillian Caparell feels that student interest in activities does not come overnight. She feels that there should be an outlined plan for filing reports from various committees and that these reports should be mandatory. A suggestion from Lillian is that there should be a full-time ticket sales window in the Union which would provide a uniform pattern of distribution for all student activities.

She has served as Secretary of Campus Combo and was Queen's Chairman at Homecoming. Active in the Newman Club she has also participated as Jr. advisor in Crawford Hall.

Comptroller

Eric Rubin

The most important facet of the proposed Activities Fee is that the "various activities will then have something definite to work with," said Eric Rubin, the uncontested candidate for comptroller. Instead of trying to figure on an expected attendance at an activity, the chairman will be able to spend a definite amount, knowing that he will not go in the red if he stays within his budget. He is strongly in favor of the fee because of this, and because it will provide a wider scope of activities, and increased participation in them. As comptroller, he will have the job of budgeting the various activities, which requires a year of accounting.

This year, he is the co-editor of the senior section of the yearbook, a chairman on Homecoming, and in the Young Democrats. Previously, he has been publicity director of Colonial Cruise, and the Order of Scarlet. He is a junior in the School of Government, majoring in public affairs with a QPI of 2.7. After graduation he intends to go into law.

Treasurer

Jerry Chizever

The uncontested candidate for treasurer, Jerry Chizever, has maintained a QPI of 2.7 and is a junior majoring in Accounting. He is circulation manager of the HATCHET, was business manager of the Potomac, treasurer of the fall and spring concerts, and worked with Woody Bentley where he saw how the council treasury works. He recommends complete disclosure of all financial

How They Stand

• THE HATCHET ASKED those candidates running for contested Student Council offices how they would have voted on the major issues that faced the Student Council this past fall. The questions are:

1. Would you have voted for the Activities Fee?
2. Would you have voted for the Activities Fee Referendum?
3. Would you have voted in support of Rule 11, which denied recognition to nationally affiliated organizations?
4. Would you have voted to recognize the Student Peace Union when it first petitioned the Council for recognition?
5. Would you have voted to recommend the removal of the HATCHET editors?
6. Do you feel the HATCHET editors should be popularly elected?
7. Do you think the Student Council should take stands on non-University (national) issues?
8. Are you in accordance with the Student Council report that some students in activities should be paid for their service?

CALPURNIA, HERE I COME

Now, as the college year approaches its mid-point, one fact emerges clearly: you are all going to flunk everything.

There are two things you can do about it. First, you can marry money. (I don't mean you marry the money itself; I mean you marry a person who has money. Weddings between people and currency have not been legal anywhere in the United States since the Smoot-Hawley Act. Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, are legal everywhere and are, indeed, smoked with great pleasure and enthusiasm in all fifty states of the Union. I bring up Marlboro Cigarettes because this column is sponsored by the makers of Marlboro, and they are inclined to brood if I omit to mention their product.)

But I digress. I was saying you can marry money but, of course, you will not because you are a high-minded, clean-living, pure-hearted, freckle-faced American kid. Therefore, to keep from flunking, you must try the second method: you must learn how to take lecture notes.

According to a recent survey, 123.6% of American undergraduates do not know the proper way to take lecture notes. To illustrate this shocking statistic, let us suppose you are taking a course in history. Let us further suppose the lecturer is lecturing on the ruling houses of England. You listen intently. You write diligently in your notebook, making a topic outline as you have been taught. Like this:

I. House of Plantagenet.

II. House of Lancaster.

III. House of York.

Then you stop. You put aside your pen. You blink back a tear, for you cannot go on. Oh, yes, you know very well that the next ruling house is the House of Tudor. The trouble is you don't know the Roman numeral that comes after III.

They got to arguing...

(It may, incidentally, be of some historical interest to point out that Americans are not the only people who don't know Roman numerals. The Romans didn't know them themselves. I suppose they could tell you how much V or X were or like that, but when it came to real duties like LXI or MMC, they just flung away their styluses and went downtown to have a bath and take in a circus and maybe stab Caesar a few times.)

(You may wonder why Rome stuck with these ridiculous numerals when the Arabs had such a nice, simple system. Well sir, the fact is that the Emperor Vespasian tried like crazy to buy the Arabic numerals from Suleiman the Magnificent, but Suleiman wouldn't do business—not even when Vespasian raised his bid to 100,000 gold piastres, plus he offered to throw in the Colosseum, the Appian Way, and Charlton Heston.)

(So Rome stuck with Roman numerals—to its sorrow, as it turned out. One day in the Forum, Cicero and Pliny got to arguing about how much is CXL times MVIX. Well sir, pretty soon everyone in town came around to join the hassle. In all the excitement, nobody remembered to lock the north gate and—wham!—before you could say pecca fortiter, in rushed the Goths, the Visigoths, and the Green Bay Packers!)

Well sir, that's the way the empire crumbles, and I digress. Let's get back to lecture notes. Let's also say a word about Marlboro Cigarettes. The makers would be so pleased! And is it not fitting that we should please these honest tobaccoists—these fine men, fond of square dancing, water sports, protein, and tattoos—these tireless perfectionists who spend all of their days trying to please us—searching everywhere for the best of all possible tobaccos, aging them with patience, blending them with tender, loving care? Marlbors are available in soft pack and flip top box. You will find XX cigarettes in each package.

Candidates and Issues

results of council activities in the HATCHET, to promote better understanding of Council activities in the student body. He is for the Activities Fee, and the Council doing a good job, though it is an organization by itself. Elections should be moved to the spring, Jerry says, and he suggests the inefficiency of dual chairmanships.

Program Director

Buddy Levis

Buddy Levis, uncontested candidate for Program Director, plans to place a directory in the Student Union to announce meetings of the various organizations. Among his other plans are better coordination of dates with the Lisner management, and better organization of events such as the Spring Concert.

Levis wants to see better communication between students and the Council than there is now. He proposes forums between the two factions on controversial subjects, with dates and places announced for them. This, he believes, would sound out student opinion. Also, political parties might begin out of this program.

A political science major, he has accumulated a 2.3 QPI, and expects to graduate in June of 1964.

He has been chairman of Spring Concert, entertainment chairman of Homecoming, and worked on Student Directory and Campus Combo.

Union Board

Steve Schaeffer

Steve Schaeffer is the candidate for Student Union Chairman, also an uncontested office. He served on the Union board in 1961 and was comptroller for the '62 Colonial Cruise. A member of AEPI he has participated in drama and dance productions as well as the Young Democrats.

He feels that the board should keep on the back of the Administration for Union improvements. He feels an investigation is in order with our contract with Cleave's and a check should be made with the other cafeterias in the area. The Union, he states, should be the center of student life and unless it is open later at night it cannot be.

"The Engineering School is a part of the school and should act like it," says Schaeffer. He also suggests that the Student Council should be elected in March.

Freshmen

Bill McAdams

William McAdams feels that he has preliminary work to do in cleaning up the freshman class as far as their activities in dances and orientation. Most of the director's work is done in the summer, and McAdams will attend summer school here. He is a student teacher and coached Saint Albans football team. He is also working on the Arlington Recreation program. He is interested in the old men betterment organization. He feels that the program would work better if the old men could meet sons before mixers. He feels that it should be on a voluntary basis for the old men to meet sons during summer.

Activities

Steve Baer

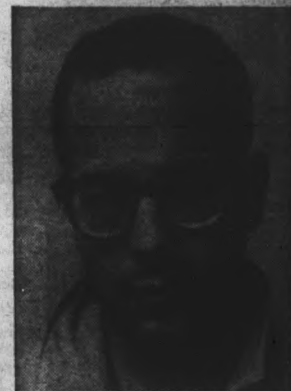

Running for the office of Student Activities Director unopposed is Steve Baer. He plans to coordinate and supervise activities with the Student Council. He believes that the budget should be run properly, not too conservative nor too radical.

He has served the student body as co-chairman of Homecoming, Colonial Cruise, and Booster Board. He is an economics major with a 3.3 in his major and a 2.5 overall. He feels that with an activities fee the Council "won't have to scramble for a few dollars to break even, there will be more money." Activities will ultimately increase in scope.

Upper Columbian

Mike Steinman

Mike Steinman, running for the Upper Columbian Representative uncontested, feels that it is time the Council started moving. He urges more space for studying; this can be done he suggests by opening the Student Union and the library to include later hours.

Student Council

Balloting will take place at Woodhull A Wednesday and Thursday. Polls close at 3 p.m. The election committee will be meeting Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings. Any problems or violations of rules will be handled at those times. Election results will be announced during intermission at Spring Concert, Friday, Feb. 8.

Other candidates running for contested offices include: John E. Gordon, lower Columbian; Bart Freedman, lower Columbian; Dennis Jones, School of Government; Vytas Tarulis, Engineering; Joel Cherry, Pharmacy; Richard Singer, Engineering; Joel Rosenberg, School of Government; and Stephen Royer, lower Columbian.

Referendum

The Activities Fee was placed on the referendum by the Student Council after it (Council) refused to consider a petition submitted by the Engineering School, requesting the referendum. Advocate Aleshire maintained that the petition was illegal, but that the Council could place the issue on the ballot if it desired. In order to vote on this question students must present their pink registration receipts to prove they are full-time students.

The question of electing HATCHET editors was placed on the ballot after some requests were made for a determination of student feeling on this issue. This is merely a straw-vote and is not legally binding, since the Council has not accepted any petitions regarding the election of HATCHET editors.

Presidential Debate

looked into it that it was work the Publicity Director was supposed to be doing, and finally I'd like to bring to your attention this recent publicity for the election and for the referendum.

"Paul voted for the Activities Fee, and he was supposed to as Publicity Director put out the necessary information. All that's been put out to date was a very mediocre, misleading one-page leaflet concerning the Activities Fee, and I doubt very many students have seen it. As Publicity Director it was his duty to disseminate this information all over the Council campus, setting out the Council's opinion why the Council by a unanimous vote felt—two Councils as a matter of fact have felt that this is needed, and yet he failed to do this.

"There are ten uncontested offices for the election, and I believe that a great deal of this was due to poor publicity, which is directly Paul's function, and I indict him for a complete failure to do his job this semester. I believe it sincerely and utterly, and I believe that he has not shown any demonstrated ability to fulfill successfully his own job as Publicity Director, much less the job of President of the Council."

SCHWAB:

"Before I go and answer I'd like to first present my position as to what I'd like to see done. The first one which I had mentioned before was the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Council, this also aids the student directly in certain capacities, such as to have joint lectureships. Perhaps one lectureship a year that would be sponsored by the six universities together. It could be held at the University of Maryland where they have seating capacities of over 12,000 students. I feel by this we will be able to attract many more speakers than we have been able to attract before.

"Another program that we're working on in connection with this Metropolitan Intercollegiate Council is the ability for students to use library facilities of other schools. At present American University has a program such as this, and this has been an asset to the students. Because there has been criticism at times as to the facilities of our library, this would ease the situation.

"My second point is that I would like to see the hours of both the Student Union and the Library expanded primarily during finals.

"Third, I'd like to have an investigation of the bookstore and the bookstore profits. A suggestion that I'd like to add here in connection with the bookstore is the possibility that students of different schools will be able to come to the bookstore at different times during registration and purchase their books. Thus the government school students would be able to go at a certain time and the education school at a different time, I think this would ease the situation.

February Orientation

"Fourth, I'd like to have a brief orientation program set in February for incoming transfer and freshmen students. At this time, and this is lacking, my opponent mentions that an orientation program should be strengthened; I think this is a good idea, both at the beginning of the year and also in February.

"Fifth, I would like to have created what I here call the Student-Faculty Body for Academic Freedom. This body would have the function of hearing grievances of students with academic features and then bringing them to the attention of the different departments involved. It's very difficult to say whether or not such an organization would have a direct effect as far as material and constructive things are concerned. At least it would bring grievances and suggestions to the attention of these departments. The major thing is these also should be brought to the attention of the administration. It's important that the administration is made aware of these things. Again the Student Council is echoing here the students, not the administration.

"Sixth, Have open activities on the weekends. Perhaps in Lisner Auditorium. Schedule movies on Friday nights or at someplace here in the University. This is important. We've been trying to think in the past what perhaps would be possible programs that would benefit the students down here on campus. Not necessarily the fraternity and sorority students but the students who are independent who are living down here. What social outlets were there which were relatively cheap and available? This would be a fine thing that could be used. I think debating here, the organization of debating could be more successfully brought to the attention of the students.

"Finally another suggestion I'd like to see incorporated or something to be considered is the possibility of extending finals from one week to 1½ weeks. The University of Virginia has a program where Thursday and Friday before exams the classes are optional, no tests and no new material is presented. And then your final program continues as a review period. I think this has some merit, but then again this is something that could be brought up for consideration.

"Number one, my opponent criticizes me of not being able to get along very well with some council members by representing the loyal minority. I might have represented the loyal minority but if I did then the student body is the minority. This is number one, 'cause I think I represented the students.

Ruling Coalition

"Number two, my opponent on repeated occasions during the latter part of the summer came up to me and thought that I was right against the ruling coalition. At that time he supported me in my stand and said perhaps some of the things I could have gone about in a little better direction but basically that I was right in what I was doing.

"Thirdly, let me point out some of the criticisms that my opponent has presented me with: the fact that I supported an amendment that would restrict participation of graduate students. Obviously this might seem as a very severe contradiction. On the face it might be but I personally don't feel that it is one. The more I sat on the Student Council the more I saw graduate students not coming to Student Council meetings, the more I saw graduate students not being that directly interested in the Student Council, the more I felt that graduate participation is not as great as it has been and perhaps there should be something to this. You've got 1200 students in the Law School and in the Med School and you've got 2 representatives. You've got 600 people in fact 612 people per representative. If you take all the rest of the students in this University and divide it by the number of representatives it comes out I think somewhere in the middle 500's.

Publicity Expenditures

"My purpose in trying to get rid of the $25 limit to publicity expenditures (I don't plan personally to go over this amount), the main reason why I put it up was that I didn't believe and I mentioned this and it was misquoted but yet I can state it here in its entirety, I believe that qualifications should be the basis for voting. This is an obvious thing but I also stated that it also appeared to me that it wasn't in the past and this is a protest more than anything else against the whole election rules. And it goes against those who support the election rules have. I feel that I was very well justified in presenting this.

"As far as supporting the referendum, this I can see is going to be a very touchy situation. You might have presented the idea that it was illegal but if you were really strongly, now I'm talking to you, Mr. Bentley, if you were really strongly in favor of student representation and having a referendum made I think you could have strained a little bit more in seeing that these invalidities were cleared up. It's been done in the past on other issues. I think, let me mention also from this same HATCHET issue what I'm referring to, in the editorial on the activities fee referendum the Dec. 11th issue "it is unlikely that the plan could become a political football, however it could be included in the candidate's platform." I feel that you make it a political opinion.

"There were ten uncontested seats in this election, you feel that it was due to poor publicity. I feel that it was due to a poor council member running. We had a miserable, ineffective body last year which did absolutely nothing. Alright it might have had several points in that the activities fee eventually came through, the Student Planning Commission, these have validity yet a lot of time was wasted on very insignificant things. And I think it's about time that we realize this.

"As far as publicity, I'd like to add a couple things in that this year it so happens the activities have been more attended than in the past. We've had some resounding successes, Fall Concert, is to witness this.

"Secondly, the referendum was well-publicized and we had a fairly good turn out. I would think better than in the past. And thirdly, 14 members came out to petition for the Student Planning Commission, that's a lot of people. This was something that was constructive. Not many people came out for Student Council. This has some kind of reflection. Other than that I have distributed information around the campus concerning elections. It has been in the HATCHET, by word of mouth it has been spread, we have a difficulty here obviously now with February elections, a difficulty that wasn't seen before. And that is the point that a lot of people went home during this time and this is a factor that has to be taken into consideration. However, I think the publicity was there. This is all I have to say now."

Library Features Drawings

By Joan Mandel

• THE PEN-AND-INK and crayon sketches on view at the Library until Feb. 10 deserve a closer look.

Hugo Steiner-Prag (1800-1945) is chiefly noted as a book illustrator. For this reason, the dark, brooding drawings in the library really need the text to be effective. Some seem scrawled and hasty. The pen-and-ink scenes of Holland, Spain, Portugal and Austria are interesting but empty of feeling.

However, when Steiner-Prag is in the vein of the German Expressionists he is on firmer ground. His "Prisoners" is a monument of tortured expression, a picture of man's inhumanity to man. His work is claustrophobic. An example is the grotesquerie in the illustrations for Tales of Hoffman. Here one can see the artist's skill in his medium, for the book, itself, is on display.

He creates mood through light and shadow. Most of the drawings are in black and white alone.

Panic When You Talk?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in social and business advancement and works like magic to give you poise, self confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways to make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your request to: Conversation, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 3582, Chicago 14, Illinois. A postcard will do.

Benton's BULL...

• SCHOLASTIC INELIGIBILITY hit Varsity line stars Ray Cushman and Pete Brindisi last week. The two Colonials will be forced to sit out of competition for a year, making them ineligible to participate in next year's Varsity schedule. Several other key players were seriously endangered when the semester grade reports came out Thursday.

Cushman, a sophomore, was a starting tackle for the Colonials last season. He bolstered the thin line, and his absence will place a premium on the development of the freshman tackles who will play Varsity football next year.

Brindisi, who was red-shirted this year, can not now join the squad at the guard position as was originally planned. Coach Camp, when asked about the loss of Dick Drummond earlier, replied "it must be treated as any other graduation loss." On this basis we can redouble our earlier statements, recalling the earlier losses, and say that 1963 has been a costly year for our football team.

BIG NAME FOOTBALL has been temporarily delayed at George Washington. By crossing names like Army and Syracuse off of the 1963 schedule the Colonials can possibly win a few more games this season, but very few of them will be major upsets. The only exception to this could be the stacked West Virginia game at our Homecoming.

Instead of laughing when the Colonials were to face Army last year, the preparation for Dietzel's Bandits' trip to the University was a high point in school spirit here. One can hardly get enthused about playing haphazard Vanderbilt and potentially strong Villanova, especially since both of these games may be played away.

MARYLAND'S JERRY GREENSPAN may be the Terp's top star, but his conduct on the basketball court in the two close battles with the Colonials has not been exemplary. Granted that both games have been close see-saw battles where tempers flare, Greenspan's sportsmanship has been above and beyond the call of duty.

We can recount one example taken from the last encounter Friday night. After being out-hustled by Duke Farrell on two occasions and loosing the ball both times, Greenspan was naturally infuriated. On the next occasion Mark Clark took the ball, whereupon Jerry scrambled after Mark. Clark stopped and Greenspan placed both hands upon Mark's back and hurdled over Clark's head. Once over he kicked backwards, narrowly avoiding an intentional injury. A foul was not called; the game continued in a furor from Colonial stands.

New Assistant Coach Signed By University

• JOSEPH S. POPP, JR., successful high school football coach in North Carolina for the past 10 years, has been signed as an assistant coach by the University. Popp fills the vacancy on the GW staff left by the resignation of Don Cochran, who joined the new staff being formed at Oklahoma State.

Popp was all-conference tailback for Catawba College and coached at North Carolina last year. He has an over-all record of 80-22 for 10 years of coaching.

While at Mooresville, N.C., he led that team to an 11-1 record, and the state championship in 1961. In 1960 his team was undefeated, winning 10 games.

While serving at North Carolina, he did all the scouting for the Tarheels and was in charge of setting up future opponents formations.

Pi Beta Phi, WAA, ADPi Place in Swimming Meet

By Sallie Greenwood

• PI BETA PHI, W.A.A. (Independents), and Alpha Delta Pi topped the Women's Athletic Association and Inter-Sorority Athletic Board's Annual Swim Meet. Outstanding swimmers were Mary Burgoyne (Pi Phi), Evy McEwan (W.A.A.), and Mary Ann Keating (ADPi).

The next event on the ISAB Calendar is a bowling tournament to be held this Friday, Feb. 8. A bus will leave the Student Union at 1 pm for the Pentagon City Lanes. Twelve sororities and a W.A.A. team are participating. A high percentage of participation has been maintained in all of this year's activities.

The ISAB standing at the moment gives Alpha Delta Pi the edge over Chi Omega and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

W.A.A. has been active this year and there is more to come. The Hockey Club played several area colleges and ended the season against Trinity. The tennis team also played Trinity and was soundly beaten. The tennis team is preparing for a trip to Staunton, Va., and the preliminaries of the Collegiate Middle Atlantic Tournament. A win in this tournament would mean a trip to the finals in St. Louis in June.

The other clubs now practicing for matches and tournaments in the near future are rifle, basketball, and swimming. The basketball team will play its first match against American University at 4 pm this Thursday.

Spectators are invited to attend these events and transportation is generally provided. Watch the HATCHET for the times and dates of future events.

CAMEL

EVERY INCH A REAL SMOKE!

Those in the know go for Camel...
 a real smoke... for real smoking satisfaction. Get the clean-cut taste of rich tobaccos. Get with Camel. Every inch a real smoke
 ...comfortably smooth, too!

The best tobacco makes the best smoke.

JIM ARENDER—World's Champion Parachutist. His cigarette? Camel.

Without the height of Joe Adamitis, Mark Clark was forced under the boards late in the game and succeeded in grabbing a rebound from Maryland's Carlson and Ferguson. Terp forward Stasiulis and Colonials Don Ardell and Kenny Legins looked on. Maryland won 68-68.

Maryland Tops Colonials 68-67 In Final Seconds

by Bill Benton

• "SOUR GRAPES AND SUCCOTASH" could have been the response from George Washington's basketball coach Bill Reinhart after it was left to the timekeeper to decide if Maryland's tip-in by Scott Ferguson was made before or after the final buzzer. He decided that "the ball was in the air" and that the basket was legal and thus, he gave the game to Maryland 68-67.

Almost without exception, the attending crowd of about 3000 felt assured of a victory after a late basket by Mike Checkan "cinched" the lead for GW, 67-66, with a little over a minute remaining. The Colonials then tried to freeze the ball, but in vain, when little Joe Mullen was fouled and failed to boost the lead with a free throw on a one and one proposition.

Again with a scoring opportunity the Colonials failed when Don Ardell was tied up under the Maryland basket with only 13 seconds remaining. Maryland moved quickly to under the George Washington basket, where a flurry of shots, rebounds, and tip-ups, did not immediately produce the score needed to give the Terps the game.

The Colonials were definitely hurt by the close officiating which took big Joe Adamitis out of the game for the last flurry. Without the 6'8" center the Colonials were at the disposal of the clock, which showed no time remaining, and the ball, which was being batted around fruitlessly by three big Maryland starters. From the sidelines it appeared that the final tip-in occurred after the buzzer and the two referees were so uncertain that they scampered to the timekeepers table to ask exactly when the ball went in. It was not until three minutes after the game ended that the scoreboard registered the Maryland victory.

Surprised Coach Bud Millikan fought through the crowd that had converged on the officials and rode merrily on his way home, along with his high point man, Jerry Greenspan.

Bill Reinhart, infuriated and unbelieving, went back to face the valiant and bewildered Colonials. Joe Adamitis, who tallied 17 points, was high-point man for the GW team. Starting slow, Ken Legins drove 16 points, while agile Mark Clark scored 14. Playing consistent ball, Don Ardell, who has played fantastic ball lately, put in 4 key baskets and two free throws for 10 points.

The Big Three championship, from this game, depended upon the performance of the Georgetown-Maryland game, which was played yesterday after the HATCHET went to press. The winner of this contest places first in this informal "league." GW will end up at the bottom of the statistics with two losses to Maryland and a split with Georgetown.

The Colonials have been plagued all season with narrow losses to West Virginia, Georgetown, VPI and twice to Maryland.

The Colonials Frosh have had an unimpressive season in spite of the consistent efforts of Mark Welker and Ron Ulrich. Welker tallied 24 points and Ulrich scored for 17 against the Maryland frosh five. A real improving figure, Mike Carroll pushed in 14 points, still leaving the Baby Buff on the short end 98-69. The failure of the Terp frosh to repeat their 100-plus performance against the Colonials can be attributed to an excellent Colonial freeze in the last minute, something the GW varsity could not do.

Conference Roundup

by Vytas Tarulis

• THE MYTH OF West Virginia's invincibility is rapidly crumbling as tournament time approaches. In the last three weeks no team lost more prestige than the once-untouchable Mountaineers, while William and Mary and Furman both blossomed as contenders.

The two most significant games of the entire season both involved the resurgent Purple Paladins of Furman. First they traveled to Blacksburg, where VPI had won 41 games in a row since a loss to GW in February 1958. There All-Conference forward Jerry Smith dropped in 25, Leroy Peacock added 20, and VPI had finally lost, 66-61. Then they lured the confident Mountaineers, who won the game in Morgantown, 104-71, into Greenville, where they withstood a tremendous closing rush to upset WVU by a point, 59-58. In spite of these victories, as well as a 64-54 conquest of Richmond, Furman continued losing close non-conference games, as South Carolina won, 80-77, and Clemson nipped them 74-73.

West Virginia had more problems than just Furman. After the Mountaineers coasted by Penn State, 89-73, they were forced to rally for seven straight points to hold off VPI, 86-83, in Morgantown. Duke's Blue Devils finally humbled WVU by holding Rod

Three New Schools On Football Schedule

• VILLANOVA, VANDERBILT, and the Citadel will be new grid-iron opponents when the Colonials open their football schedule on Sept. 21 at VMI. In a special press release to the HATCHET, Bill Dismer, University Athletic Publicity Director, announced that Army, Syracuse, Boston University, and Richmond have been dropped.

The Colonials, in this exchange, return to a nine game schedule and with four home games. The power teams appear to be West Virginia, Virginia Tech, and Villanova.

This is the second time the Buff have faced both Villanova and Vanderbilt in football. George Washington defeated Villanova, 13-7, in 1920 while Vanderbilt edged one of Jim Pixlee's early teams, 7-6, in 1934 when the Colonial's grid fortune started upward. That was the year that the Colonials compiled a 6-3-1 record,

Writers Pick Adamitis As Week's Best

By Merrill Solomon

• BIG JOE ADAMITIS, the 6'8" center from Exeter, Penn., has been selected as this week's player of the week. "Big Joe" scored 22 points against VPI and 17 points against Maryland to be high man for the Colonials in both games.

Against Maryland last Friday night Joe hit on eight of 14 from the floor for 57 percent. He also pulled down 14 rebounds against Jerry Greenspan and company. Joe is one of the most improved players so far this year.

He is not only scoring better and playing sharper, but he has also become a take charge man, a floor general for the Buff. When GW drops off into a zone defense Big Joe will very often be the one to tell the boys who to pick up as the opposing team comes down court.

Against the Terrapins he was always "talking it up" and keeping the Colonials sharp.

Joe is a physical education major and plans to be a basketball coach after his college days are over.

Hatchet Staff . . .

• ATTENTION HATCHET staff members and newcomers. There will be a staff meeting in the HATCHET office Wednesday at noon to fill out new schedule cards and receive assignments. If you can't make it at noon, come in sometime during the afternoon. Positions are open in all areas, but copy readers and newswriters are especially needed.

including Oklahoma among its victims by a 3-0 score.

The Colonials will open on the road before the fall semester begins, facing both VMI and Furman away. Returning home, the Colonials meet the Citadel and VPI, before traveling again to face Villanova and William and Mary.

West Virginia and Brigham Young will be battled at home. The Homecoming Dance will be November 2 with the Colonials facing West Virginia. The Homecoming game will be Nov. 2 with the Colonials facing West Virginia.

High point man for each of the Colonial's encounters last week, "Big Joe" Adamitis adds much needed height to the Colonial squad.
